Trump 'looking forward' to Thailand-Cambodia ceasefire deal at ASEAN summit, Malaysia says

Thailand and Cambodia have agreed to a ceasefire, set to be signed at the upcoming ASEAN summit, Malaysia's foreign minister said. The July conflict along their disputed border left at least 48 dead and displaced tens of thousands. The ceasefire plan includes removal of landmines and heavy weaponry. The agreement, known as the "Kuala Lumpur Accord," will be brokered by Malaysia and the United States. U.S. President Trump is expected to attend the summit.

Austrian former billionaire Rene Benko goes on trial, in Innsbruck

Austrian ex-billionaire René Benko is on trial in Innsbruck over allegations tied to the collapse of his Signa property empire. Prosecutors accuse him of diverting about €660,000—€360,000 in unjustified rent and expenses and €300,000 gifted to relatives—to avoid paying creditors. This is the first case brought against him, despite a broader probe estimating damages of up to €300 million. Benko, in custody since January, denies all charges and faces up to 10 years in prison.

Oil falls as US-China trade tensions rattle nerves

Oil prices rose modestly as early signs of easing trade tensions between the U.S. and China lifted market sentiment and eased worries about weak fuel demand. Brent crude climbed about 0.4% to $63.54 a barrel, while U.S. WTI also gained 0.4% to $59.71. The two nations held substantive talks over the weekend, and President Trump is still expected to meet President Xi Jinping soon, helping to cool fears of further escalation.
