Supreme Court to Rule on Trump's Birthright Citizenship Limits

The U.S. Supreme Court will decide the legality of President Trump's directive to limit birthright citizenship, which aims to prevent children born in the U.S. to non-citizen parents from gaining citizenship. This decision follows a lower court ruling that blocked the executive order, citing violations of the 14th Amendment. The Supreme Court is expected to hear arguments and issue a ruling by June. Trump's policy is part of his broader immigration crackdown, which has been a controversial aspect of his presidency, with critics accusing him of discrimination.

US Sets 2027 Deadline for NATO's Europe-Led Defense

The U.S. has set a 2027 deadline for Europe to take control of most NATO defense capabilities, including intelligence and missiles, according to Pentagon officials. This shift of responsibility from the U.S. to European NATO members is seen as a major change in the alliance. U.S. officials expressed dissatisfaction with Europe's progress in strengthening defense capabilities since Russia's invasion of Ukraine in 2022. If Europe fails to meet the deadline, the U.S. may reduce its involvement in NATO defense coordination, officials warned.

Turkey's Paribu Acquires Majority Stake in Bahrain's CoinMENA

Turkey's digital asset platform, Paribu, has acquired a majority stake in Bahrain and Dubai-based CoinMENA, a cryptocurrency platform, in a deal valued at up to $240 million. This marks Turkey's largest fintech transaction to date and its first cross-border acquisition in the digital asset space. Paribu's acquisition expands its licensed operations into new markets, making it a regulated player in one of the world's most crypto-adoptive regions.
