US-brokered peace talks break off without deal after overnight Russian bombardment of Ukraine

U.S.-brokered Ukraine-Russia talks in Abu Dhabi ended without an agreement, but both sides said they were open to further dialogue, with another round expected next Sunday, a U.S. official said. During the talks, Russia launched a major overnight drone-and-missile attack that knocked out power and heat in Kyiv in subzero cold. Ukraine's foreign minister called it a cynical strike on the "negotiation table." Discussions covered peace parameters and security guarantees amid Russia's Donbas demands, and Kyiv refuses more territorial concessions.

Russian strike on Ukraine's Kyiv leaves 1,700 buildings still without heat, mayor says

Kyiv's mayor Vitalii Klitschko said about 1,700 apartment blocks still lacked heating after a Russian missile-and-drone strike earlier in the week, as crews continued repairs in subzero temperatures. Ukraine said Russia has intensified attacks on energy and civilian infrastructure, with a nationwide barrage on Saturday leaving roughly 1.2 million properties without power. Deputy PM Oleksiy Kuleba said 3,200 Kyiv buildings were without heat late Saturday, down from 6,000. Talks in Abu Dhabi coincided with the strike and threatened further disruptions.

Recovery of New Zealand landslide victims halted on safety concerns

New Zealand authorities paused recovery efforts for six people presumed dead after a landslide hit a packed summer-holiday campground at Mount Maunganui in Tauranga. Police said work stopped Sunday after crews spotted a crack and assessed the site as too unstable for responders. Heavy rain triggered Thursday's slip, burying parts of the campground; human remains were found Saturday and officials are working to identify victims, including two teenagers. Prime Minister Christopher Luxon expressed condolences as officials review conditions daily.
